

QuickSwirl Terminal Tackle System

Ever found yourself in the middle of an active bite ... for your wading buddy, that is ... while you struggle to change lures? I know I have dropped more than my share of jigheads and spoons trying to re-tie in a hurry and you'll only bend over once to recover a lost lure while wading.

The QuickSwirl terminal tackle attachment device keeps down time to a minimum by allowing you to quickly and easily change out baits without retying or fiddling with snaps. Invented by Roger Friedrichs, a native Texas coastal fisherman who spent many long hours wade fishing for speckled trout and redfish, the QuickSwirl is extremely durable and effective for everything from panfish to kingfish.

The product has been rigorously tested in several models to ensure consistent product performance. Deep sea, offshore models have been successfully tested with zero product failure or compromise on wahoo, dorado, shark, kingfish, ling and amberjack. The inshore version has been similarly tested on 30-plus-pound jack crevalle. QuickSwirl comes in two versions, with or without a swivel.
